- In 2011, Kazakhstan's scientists were the first among the CIS countries to gain access to the world's scientific and information resources. Today, under a national license, universities and research organizations have access to the largest overseas databases, such as Elsevir, Clarivate Analytics.

In Kazakhstan, the Committee for the Control of Education and Science of the Ministry of Education and Science of the Kazakhstan (CCES of the MES of the Kazakhstan) is officially recognized by journals that are part of the international citation systems Web of Science and Scopus.

- Currently, in Kazakhstan the librarian's specialists are taught at only 9 universities, including the three higher educational institutions where master's degrees are provided (on the slide). These are Al-Farabi KazNU, M. Auezov South Kazakhstan State University and S. Toraighyrov Pavlodar State University.

according to 2017 survey

At present, 9 universities in the country are preparing library staff.

- Humanitarian and Technical Institute "Akmeshit"
- Mahambet Utemisov West Kazakhstan State University
- West-Kazakhstan Innovative-Technological University
- Kazakh State Women's Teacher Training University
- Al-Farabi Kazakh National University
- SH. Ualikhanov Kokshetau State University
- Bolashak University
- Auezov South Kazakhstan State University
- S.Toraighyrov Pavlodar State University

- If you look at the general picture of the degrees - 2 PhD's, 17 are candidates of sciences and slightly more than 20 masters. The annual graduation rate for all 9 universities is on average just over 200 graduates, this is when over 11,000 libraries of all systems and departments work in the country. The general fund of libraries of higher educational institutions of the republic is 66,769,534 copies.

- Libraries are experiencing an acute shortage of specialists with higher professional education, both in the regions and in the country as a whole. As of 05/25/2019 about 1382 people work in the libraries at universities of Kazakhstan, just 512 of them with higher professional education.
